"Splendid fruit," remarked a man to his wife at the lunch table. "I wish you would always get this brand."

He referred to the "Palace" brand.

Housewives will find a great difference in the different brands of canned goods.

For instance: "Palace" or "Epicurean" fruits or vegetables are always uniform in quality and size and that quality the best.

"Palace" or Epicurean goods can be bought at almost any grocery and if they do not prove the best you ever had the grocer will return your money and charge the goods to me.

LINOLEUM

Linoleum is not cheap unless it is good.

Good linoleum means thick linoleum. Thin stuff will wear through in a short time, but the real material will last a lifetime.

We carry several grades at prices from 90c. to $1.50 a square yard, according to the pattern—all good.

It wouldn't pay you or us either to carry cheaper grades.

In our excellent new stock are splendid inlaid and print patterns. Plain also.

BIG ISLAND IS NERVOUS

Afraid that Loan Bill Items Will Not Be Spent.

Senator John D. Paris of the Island of Hawaii, called on Governor Carter yesterday to see him and talk over the situation. The Governor afterward expressed his gratification at having had the opportunity of discussing with so representative a man the needs of his particular district.

Over on Hawaii, it appeared from the mouth of Mr. Paris, the people are worried over the loan appropriations. They fear that the items for their island will not be expended before the close of the biennial period on June 30, 1905, which means that unless previously under contract the works could not be constructed until the items were reappropriated.

Governor Carter promised Mr. Paris to have all the works provided for in the bill given out for construction as soon as possible.

Senator McCandless of Oahu, who lately returned from a long absence on the mainland, also called on the Governor yesterday.

EVERYTHING AWAITS BIG POLO GAMES

Everything is in readiness for the grand polo game at Moanalua tomorrow afternoon, the grounds having been put in excellent shape and arrangements made for the seating of the spectators about the great tournament field.

Busses will connect at the terminus of the Rapid Transit line to carry spectators who desire that mode of transportation. The busses will be in readiness to leave shortly after 2 o'clock. A reasonably small fare will be charged for this service.

A cup has been offered as an incentive to the polo players, and two of the best games ever seen here are promised.

A half holiday on Wednesday has been guaranteed by the business houses on behalf of the tournament.

POLO BALL ON MONDAY AT YOUNG

Following the two polo games this week the visiting players from Maui and Kauai are to be the guests of honor at a polo ball given at the Alexander Young Hotel next Monday evening. The invitations are to be issued shortly. Mr. Robert Shingie being a committee of one having the affair in hand. The polo ball a year ago was a brilliant affair and the coming function will be equally showy.

FOUND MOLOKAI RATHER DRY ISLAND

Roy H. Chamberlain, Collector of Internal Revenue, returned in the steamer Likelike from a tour of inspection of the island of Molokai, on which he was accompanied by Deputy Collector W. F. Drake. This was Mr. Chamberlain's first visit to Molokai. He found it "a dry island," though the moon is as kindly disposed to its inhabitants as to those of the rest of the group.

MORGAN'S COAT OF ARMS.

J. Pierpont Morgan said to a questioner one day that his was an independent branch of the Morgan family, but dating from the Norman kings. Asked if he had a coat of arms, the Wall street financier took a $20 gold piece out of his pocket, exhibited it and replied that that was it, and that a few other families had adopted the same emblem.

CHARACTER RECOGNIZED

Judge Hapai Reappointed for Integrity and Honesty.

Governor Carter yesterday wrote to District Magistrate Hapai of Hilo, informing him that after some hesitation he had decided to reappoint him. The reason the governor gave for his hesitancy was Judge Hapai's "pretended ignorance of English."

"I say 'pretended,'" the Governor explained after closing the letter, "because I believe he knows enough English but will not admit it. I have concluded to reappoint Judge Hapai on consideration of his knowing both languages."

"It is my policy to have a Hawaiian for district magistrate. A district like Hilo, where the use of English preponderates, should have a man who thoroughly understands English. In reappointing Hapai, however, I wish to show regard for his honesty and integrity."

Governor Carter stated that the matter was up to him of appointing a district magistrate for North Kona. On this subject, generally, the Governor said:

"There are quite a number of appointments to be made. I should like to urge on the public again that they register their complaints and state facts in time to have them considered before the making of appointments to office. The great difficulty is that when an appointment comes up I hear nothing about it until after the man is appointed, because everybody thinks the other fellow had written about the matter. I am anxious to do things right, but the people should help."

DEATH OF AN EARLY ISLAND MISSIONARY

A wireless message from Hilo yesterday announced the death of Mrs. J. S. Reed, the youngest of the group of three survivors of the early missionaries to Hawaii. She was seventy-five years old last December. She leaves two sons, W. H. and O. T. Shipman. Mrs. Reed died on Sunday and her funeral took place yesterday.

Mrs. Reed was one of the only three among the Hawaiian missionaries who were born in Scotland, her native home being Aberdeen, in Fifeshire. At an early age she came to the United States with her parents, lived in Quincy, Ill., was educated to be a teacher, and, in 1853, was married to the Rev. W. C. Shipman. They spent the next winter in New Haven and were then directed toward the Micronesian field of labor, but when on their voyage they reached Lahaina, they were detained by the Hawaiian Mission to fill the station at Kau. In isolated Kau they labored for over six years and enjoyed their work. At the end of 1861 Mr. Shipman died and Mrs. Shipman removed to Hilo with her three children, and maintained the family by keeping a boarding school until 1868, when she was married to Wm. H. Reed, a merchant and ranchman, at one time owner of the Kapapala ranch, now owned by the Hawaiian Agricultural Company. Mr. Reed died in 1880.

DR. JUDD'S PART IN H. M. WHITNEY'S COMING

Editor Advertiser: In reference to the circumstances of the late H. M. Whitney's leaving New York to come to Honolulu, I fully agree with you that he came out "at Dr. Judd's solicitation," because Dr. Judd being practically at the head of the Government, Mr. Whitney's engagement of service must have come from him, whether it was made in New York, or later in San Francisco. My contention is that any conference with Dr. Judd in San Francisco could only have resulted in confirmation or possible modification of the terms of the original engagement. Mr. Whitney was the last man to "chuck his job" and rush off on an indefinite prospecting trip to California. He unquestionably hurried over the Isthmus in '49 with a clear assurance of definite employment in Honolulu, whether his bride hastened around the Horn to meet him.

I understand that Mr. J. O. Carter corroborates my statement to the Hawaiian Star. S. E. BISHOP.

SPLIT BIDS OR WHOLE

Holloway Gives Both Sides a Chance to Make Good.

An important notice to contractors is given by Superintendent Holloway in this issue. Besides the segregated proposals heretofore called for, he invites blanket bids for the entire completion of work set forth in sections 1 and 2, and in sections 3 and 4 of the plans and specifications for certain buildings on the Insane Asylum grounds. This is at the urgent request of various contractors. Mr. Holloway explains that sections 5 and 6 are not included in these blanket proposals, inasmuch as the bids would be very liable to exceed the unexpended portion of the appropriation made for the work, which is approximately $63,000.

In connection with the movement by the Builders' and Traders' Exchange to have segregated bids for different trades on public works, the Advertiser has received from the side of general contractors opposed to the movement an explanation of what they deem "the real reason" for the movement. This is that the various trades usually figuring as sub-contractors to the builders have in many instances lost heavily from the defaulting of general contractors. Those who signed the petition against the segregation scheme, which appeared in this paper eight days ago, are pointed to as thoroughly responsible firms that can be depended on to give a square deal to their sub-contractors. Therefore, it is argued that, if these firms can show that it is in the interest both of economy and of efficient work in all lines to have public works constructed under blanket contracts, no change should be made in the system. Possibly the results of the experimental proposals now being invited for the Insane Asylum buildings may be decisive of the merits of the question so far as public interests are concerned.

KITASATO HONORED.

quantities were shipped to and used in and about Manila. It was a preventive, which perhaps was as beneficial as a cure. It was his hope to make the serum still more beneficial so that it could be used in smaller quantities.

MEDICAL MEN ENTERTAIN.

Dr. Kitasato was received at 10 p. m. by the Hawaiian Territorial Medical Association at the Pacific Club. An informal reception was held after which the company retired to the private dining room where a fine spread was served and champagne was liberally quaffed.

Dr. Moore, president of the association, delivered an address of welcome to the distinguished bacteriologist, and Dr. Kitasato responded, speaking in German, his remarks being interpreted into English by Dr. Hoffmann. Other speeches were made by Dr. Day, the vice-president; Dr. C. B. Cooper, Dr. C. B. Wood, Dr. W. H. Mays, Dr. Ray, all being words of welcome to the guest of honor, while Hon. Miki Saito, the Japanese Consul; Dr. Mori, Dr. Kobayashi, Dr. Kitsuiki and Dr. Uchida spoke in appreciation of the honor accorded Dr. Kitasato by the American medical fraternity. Prof. Hozumi spoke in English in a scholarly manner.

An international feeling of friendship pervaded all the speeches and the remarks of the American physicians were directed mainly toward the magnificent scientific work done by Dr. Kitasato. Toward the end of the entertainment Governor Carter entered and made one of his characteristic, happy speeches.

Dr. Cooper, in referring to Dr. Kitasato, said that Dr. Kitasato was one of the greatest authorities on bacteriology.

A Royal Birthday.

Prince John Alexander Liholiho Kalanilo'opono-o-Lunali'ilo Defries had a birthday yesterday and his mother, the Princess Emma Alexandria Defries, gave a luau to a few friends. The affair was a sumptuous one, all the native and many of the foreign edibles being provided. In brand and vintage the occasion was also memorable. It was not until a late hour that the royal party was all broken up.

COULDN'T BITE THE WINTER.

Three physicians seated at a table in the rathskeller at Broadway and Chambers street were discussing tuberculosis, when Gus, the German bartender, blurted out:

"Der most peoples die on dot in a year, but I got a friend what is dying on it two years. Maybe vill he get better? Vhat?"

"Well," said one of the doctors, "if he bides over the winter he may live." "Bites over der winter!" exclaimed Gus. "How can he bite over der winter. He is a old man and got no teeth."—New York Times.

William Dean Howells and his wife do not always agree on the values of words. On one occasion the novelist held that "lunch" was proper, not "luncheon," and he went to the dictionary, which upheld him, whereupon he chortled. Then he read an extract in the dictionary. Mrs. Howells asked the name of the author. "William Dean Howells," was the reply. "Tut, tut," said Mrs. Howells, "he's no authority."
